What is PrEP?

Pre-exposure prophylaxis, or PrEP, is the daily use of anti-HIV medication that keeps HIV negative people from becoming infected with HIV. So far only one pill, Truvada, has been approved for this use, but additional studies are in progress to find additional drugs that could be used, and other ways of taking them. This is an exciting new area in HIV prevention research!

HIV PREVENTION E-MAIL LISTS

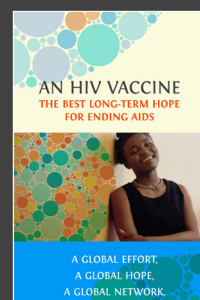

AVAC Advocates Network

The Advocates Network sends out periodic messages by e-mail. They offer webinars and conference calls to discuss current topics in HIV prevention, and often provide coverage of major HIV prevention conferences.
avac.org/advocates-network

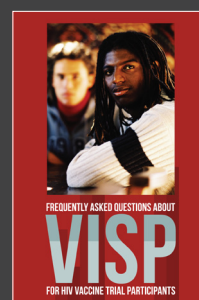

International Rectal Microbicide Advocates (IRMA)

While IRMA offers a range of materials on their website, and they offer conference calls to discuss current topics in HIV prevention, one of their most dynamic features is an e-mail discussion list. Members are able to post questions, share stories they have seen in the media, etc., and members from around the world reply with comments. This is an active discussion list! While they have a focus on rectal microbicides, the conversations are broad and include a full range of HIV prevention topics, LGBT rights around the world, and other related human rights and social justice topics.
